Dear Secretary of State,

As Independent Anti-Slavery Commissioner, I am writing in relation to engagement my office has had on Tier 4 student visas and potential links to trafficking and exploitation, particularly concerning students from Vietnam.

In February 2020 during a meeting with policy advisors in Downing Street, a Times report on this issue from November 2019¹ was discussed. I agreed that I would reach out to the appropriate schools to alert them to the risks. I subsequently wrote to the Boarding Schools Association (BSA), the Independent Schools Council (ISC), the Association for Education and Guardianship of International Students (AEGIS) and the Independent Schools' Bursars Association (IBSA). I was keen to acknowledge good practice in the sector such as the development of a Certified Agent Scheme² by the BSA and the AEGIS guardianship accreditation scheme³, but also to encourage schools to be vigilant on this issue.

My office has since had positive engagement with each of these bodies. I am encouraged by the sector's desire to develop an understanding of modern slavery and human trafficking and their commitment to safeguarding more broadly. During meetings with my office, several suggestions for collaboration were discussed, including co-production of a short child trafficking guidance document for the sector and an article for the Bursars' Review magazine. I am conscious that safeguarding challenges in the sector extend beyond child trafficking and beyond my remit as Independent Anti-Slavery Commissioner. I would therefore encourage the Department of Education to explore these communication and awareness raising opportunities further, as there is a clear appetite for collaboration and a desire to share learning.

² Boarding Schools Association (2020) Boarding Schools Certified Agent Scheme 2020-2023

³ Association for Education and Guardianship of International Students (2020) Guardianship Organisations

The organisations have raised the lack of statutory regulation of guardians for international students. There are voluntary accreditation and certification schemes, however, these only cover a proportion of international students in the UK who are cared for by guardians. I also understand that where a homestay is shorter than 28 days, there is no requirement for the homestay to be vetted if arranged by an unaccredited guardian. I have been made aware of cases of international students, under the age of 16, being placed unaccompanied in unsupervised accommodation and in unsuitable homestays. I therefore wanted to ensure these issues were brought to your attention, particularly in the light of plans to consult on the National Minimum Standards for Boarding Schools.

Lastly, it has been suggested to me that the response on these matters lacks co-ordination across Whitehall and that there are inconsistent messages. I would suggest that consistent messaging and clear guidance on responsibilities for monitoring independent guardians and safeguarding of international students more broadly is vital and needs to be improved.

I look forward to receiving your response. In the interests of transparency, I request that you respond in a way that enables me to publish your letter on my website.

Yours sincerely,
